Mr. Henderson,
our warmest welcome.

MR. JAMES HENDERSON, JR. HEADMASTER

"We drew a circle that took him in."

Dedication

In planning our dedication, we, the class of 1957, wished to honor someone whom we considered representative of all phases of school life. We are dedicating this year's Weather Vane to one whose friendliness and heartwarming humor are found not only in the halls but also in the classroom; to one, who, if he could not be found in his office, could be found directing Maumee Valley's dramatic students or cheering its athletic teams on to victory; to one, who, no matter how great his own troubles, was always ready and willing to share ours.

To you, Mr. Coryell, we owe a debt which we cannot hope to repay. You have been more than a teacher to us; you have been a friend. It is our sincere desire that you will remember us long after we have left Maumee Valley, for we will always hold you high in our esteem and deep in our hearts.

To the Students:

I wonder how many of you, while examining a piece of your Mother's old silver, have been curious about those little squares and figures which you may have found imprinted on the bottom of the piece. Those "hallmarks," as they are called, are the maker's guarantee of the quality and character of the product, attested to by the Goldsmiths' Hall in London.

In the few short months that I have been with you, I have become increasingly aware that you have a similar hallmark, not as tangible or definable perhaps, but equally indicative of the quality and character of the school. That mark, which you bear with pride, is your spirit. From the hour of the opening assembly, and your spontaneous and heartwarming welcome of me—a moment that will always live with me—I have been tremendously impressed and excited by your enthusiasm, your willingness to cooperate, your capacity for work of all sorts, and your genuine interest in others. To the best of my knowledge, no request for assistance ever went unheeded by you, whether that wish were voiced by the Headmaster or by the youngest member of the pre-school group. Beyond mere willingness to cooperate, however, you were always eager and happy to do so, a rare trait indeed of so large a group—I respect and admire you for it. This lesson of service to others and interest in them is not one which can be learned from books; yet no other knowledge will serve you more fully or happily in the future.

My most sincere gratitude to each of you for accepting me so warmly and comfortably into your "family." I know that changing "fathers" is a confusing and upsetting experience. Yet I assure you, from first-hand experience, that adopted fathers, in no time at all, come to love their vicarious children—and nothing really is changed. My prayers and finest wishes accompany you into the future.

Faithfully yours,

James Henderson J.

Last Will and Testament

We, the class of 1956, being of sound body, mind, and estate, on taking our leave from Maumee Vailey, do hereby make this our Last Will and Testament.

Jim leaves his files of jokes to Choppy.
Joanie wills her telephone bill to Mrs. Ashley.
Mary leaves her size to Dutch.

Tom wills one red coat and yellow Jeepster to Jeff.

Gretch leaves her "dink a-doos" to Sue Finkbeiner.

Sue leaves an air pump for the basketballs.

Greg leaves Andy behind

Phil leaves his tree seeds for M.V.'s front landscaping.

Julie leaves her "uniform" to Rick Sherry wills one used coffee pot to next year's Senior history class.

Mark leaves his stage coach line to Jeff Wright.

Will Andy leave?

Sue takes everybody's apple pie.

Gretch takes anything she can find.

Julie, on second thought, takes her uniform.

Sherry takes her time.

Tom takes his driver's license and hides it.

Mary takes the cake.

Greg takes his I.Q.

Jim takes his signed (?) diploma.

Andy takes pictures.

Phil takes his grades and buries them.

loanse takes her Sensor privileges to coilege.

Mark takes his "Happy Jim" chewing tobacco.

Class Notes

The class of '57 this year directed their efforts to many projects benefitting the school. After successfully completing the school's first used book sale the Juniors and their talents in publishing the Weather Vane. At Christmas-time the Juniors aided a needy family and caroled at the Toledo State Hierlin. Along with being hosts to the Seventh Grade at the Weather Vane party in February, they presented the Senior Prom, the timal event of the school year. In spite of these numerous activities, the Juniors managed to maintain a high academic record in preparation for the Junior College Boards

Visiting Editor With the Sixth Grade

Rick: I'm here today to ask you about your various activities during your Sixth Grade year. What historical projects have you engaged in this year?

Sue: Well, we have read from the stone age to the discovery of America.

Rick: It sounds like a very interesting course. How did you find your studies in Science?

Hugh: Under Mr. Houle's directorship, we made many experiments. They were lots of fun and very interesting.

Rick: I see, those were the explosions the upper school heard. I suppose you have been doing a lot of writing in preparation for the Seventh Grade?

Clair: Yes, in fact we all entered a composition contest in the Junior Scholastic.

Rick: It seems as if you all worked hard this year, but what extra-curricular activities did you have?

George: At Christmas time the children in the choir helped with the Lower School operetta a Christmas Fantasy.'

Dave: Also, last winter the boys in our class played Delta in basketball. Four of the girls became cheerleaders for the event

Ann: What interested me most was the trip we took to Greenfield Village. We saw the Henry Ford Museum and the quaint little houses

Rick: Well, your Sixth Grade year sounds like a very profitable and enjoyable one.

Close the Door Softly

As the sun began its ascent over the mountains, Alf lay quietly in bed waiting for sounds of his mother's awakening. The boy watched the sun from the tiny window of his room and wondered why his mother wasn't up starting the fire. She knew he hated to get out of bed with no fire in the pot belly. Gradually, however, sounds began coming from the adjoining bedroom.

"Well," he supposed, "she would get up later today seeing as we stayed up half the night arguing about my going away,"

'Alf."

Yeah, Ma?"

"Got the fire going." "Okay, coming."

While he dressed, he thought of the argument of the night before. His mother was being stubborn, he reasoned. Atter all, he was old enough to make his own decisions.

When he had completed dressing, he entered the kitchen where his mother was cooking break

"Alf, about last night; you know I'm right, don't you?"

"Let's not talk about it now."

'All right, son."

I'm going out to get some wood."

"Close the door softly."

"I always do, don't I?", he replied angrily, as he thought how his mother hated to hear the door slam. Sne had since his father had walked out that door, slammed it, and never returned.

As he stalked out to the woodpile, he resumed his meditation on the argument. As he thought over the problem, he began to wonder if he was right. All the chores would be left for his mother, but there weren't many. He could always send money to one of his unemployed friends in the town when he got his job. He'd come back or send for his mother when he was able to do so. Almost all the boys he knew had left or were preparing to leave. Certainly his mother understood that ne coulan't stay home when his friends had gone There were no opportunities in the town to make money. If he stayed on the farm, he'd never get anywhere either. Getting a job in the city could not be too difficult

When he had the wood, he walked back into the kitchen. The pancakes smelled good, but then tney always did.

He pulled up a chair and began to eat. Silence.

Why didn't his mother say something?

Au 1 63

You'd better get started if you're going to get the plow fixed."

"Okay, I'm going."

As he opened the door, his mother called, "Close

tne door softly,"

Seeing the town again made him even more

anxious to leave

When he had given the plow to the blacksmith, ne wandered into the only store in town, Hankey's General. There he saw two men he knew only slightly. Both were only a few years older than ne, but they lived on the other side of the valley.

As he stood around thumbing through magazines, he heard one of the men telling old Hankey of the troubles of his farm. The other was saying ne had attempted to establish a business a year earlier, but there had not been enough demand to make any enterprise successful. Hankey added ne was barely able to keep his store going because of the community's small incomes. Now because of mortgages and other indebtedness. both men were unable to leave their lands.

Alf slipped quickly out the door. He was decided now. He knew that if he said anything to his mother, she would try to stop him. No more arguing. Tonight he would leave. He'd write his mother later.

He picked up the plow up at the blacksmith's and started home. He would act naturally. His mother would never guess he was leaving.

At the dinnertable, Alf sensed his mother real ized his plans. She couldn't. He had acted the same as always.

"Yes?"

Going to feed the chickens?"

"Huh; oh, sure."

'When?" "Now."

The sun was dipping behind the trees when Alf returned. Somehow it symbolized his dreams as he watched it. No matter how dark it might seem, the light always followed

He re-entered the house, glanced at his mother where she was sewing, and went into his bedroom. Carefully he took his clothes and stuffed them into a cardboard suitcase

As the old clock on the kitchen shelf struck nine, his mother arose and entered her room. Filteen minutes later the bedsprings creaked as she settled for the night.

The moon rose. All decided it was time. He picked up his bag and opened the door. The hinges groaned. He slipped into the kitchen and started to pass his mother's room.

He jumped as if a shot had passed through him. "Ye-yeah, Ma?"

'Close the door softly."

"Yes, Ma"

Le Cercle Français

Le Cercle Franç is was reorganized this year under the direction of Madame Baynard. Several officers rewrote the constitution. The club met once a month at the home of a member to study French culture. To encourage the speaking of French among the members, nothing but French was spoken. These programs consisted of games, musicand retreatments. Again this year the club corresponded with a displaced person who was adopted by a patroness at the serial Centin and a tradition started last year the members gave a French dinner at the end of the year

The Dep Club

The Pep Club is a new organization which was started at the beginning of this year to promote more spirit in the school. It is composed of the Senior High girls who entered the cheerleading contest which was held early in the fair. The Pep Club has done many things for the school and student activities including sponsoring and decorating for the Homecoming Dance and making shakers and posters for the games. This new club has proved so successful that it is hoped their enthusiasm will carry them throughout each succeeding year.

against six losses, for the training of the will years, the Mohawks will the result of the could have gone either way. The hopes for next year are high, for the team was composed of many underclassmen, several of whom showed great promise for the coming season. Every player gave his best and a special pat on the back should go to our coach, Mr. Edgar Charles, who, although seeing his team suffer many close defeats, always gave his best in preparing his team for the coming battle

M.V.'s defense tightens.

Saturday, October 22, was Homecoming Day, and the Mohawks picked that day to turn in their finest performance of the year. For the first time in the season, M.V. used a T formation and ran and cassed well from their new pattern. Early in the second quarter, Park pounced over for a score. M.V. came right back from their T formation, and mixing power plays with their ground gaining passing attack, the Mohawks moved seventy yards for the score. But once again an important extra point was missed and until early in the fourth quarter the score stood 7-6 in Park's favor. For a final score Park pushed over another touchdown and moved ahead 13-6.

The Mohawks showed little life and not much at ack against a strong Rising Sun team in their final ame of the season. Rising Sun moved at will and then the final gun sounded the score was 30-0.

The nucleus of this team consisted of experienced, although young, talent, and it is a mystery why the over-all season's record was not a little better. The team consisted of one freshman, five sophomores, two juniors, and three seniors. Of the five losses, four were fairly close to the last inning, and one went 10 innings before our opponents finally emerged victorious. However, the losses by graduation were comparatively light, and the hopes for this season are quite optimistic.

FIBERGLAS

Where you live ..

Fiberglas* Insulations keep homes cooler in summer, warmer in winter... cut fuet bills. Appliances insulated with Fiberglas materials are more efficient household servants. Adding lustrous, fire-tafe beauty to windows, Fiberglas curtains wash in a jiffy, need no ironing. Famous DUST-STOP* Filters for air conditioning and warm-air furnaces are Fiberglas, too.

When you travel ..

Whether you go by plane, train, bus or ship—or in the family car —F(berglas Insulations are on the job quieting noises and keeping temperatures comfortable. You'll see fire-cafe Fiberglas draperies in lounge cars and ship salons. Even hidden away in your car's battery, Fiberglas separators help to improve cold starting.

is in your life. for good!

Where you work

Chances are Fiberglas materials work right with you. In offices, stores, plants, hospitals and public buildings, Fiberglas Sound Control Products quiet noises, make work pleasanter. Fiberglas Industrial Insulations cut heating, refrigerating and air conditioning costs . . . improve process efficiency. Wherever people gather, Fiberglas draperies add beauty and safety.

Fun and Fiberglas products go together. Fisherman's favorite is a Fiberglas-reinforced plastic rod that has pienty of whip and won't kink. From boat hulls and toys to golf sticks and archery gear, you'll find more recreation equipment made of Fiberglasreinforced plastics. And have you seen those handy picnic hampers, insulated with Fiberglas wool?

Fiberglas Research Is Focused on Your Future

Thenk of all Less than twenty years ago, before Owens-Corning pioneered fibrous glass commercially, it was little more than a novelty Today, Fiberglas materials offer new and better ways to meet all corts of human needs. This very minute, the same Owens-Corning research program that has produced all major fibrous glass developments is perfecting new uses that will improve your way of life. Fiberglas is in your life...and in your future... for good!
